Free Services Provided

The Neighborhood Legal Clinics (NLC) program began in 1974 and has grown to 26 clinics utilizing over 600 volunteer attorneys and legal assistants. These volunteers provide King County residents with up to a half hour of one-on-one advice, consultation, information and referral free of charge. NLC attorneys may help a client determine if their problem is a legal one, suggest possible options, review legal documents and provide sources for referral.

The NLC attorneys are volunteers and are not available for hire and will not represent clients in court.

NLC attorneys may not have expertise in all areas of the law, but they will make every attempt to answer questions accurately.

As a free community service, the clinics address a wide variety of legal questions on topics including divorce, child support and custody, employment, real estate, landlord/tenant, debtor/creditor problems, bankruptcy, immigration, consumer affairs, car accidents, wills, estate planning and probate.

Accommodations for persons with disabilities provided when requested.

Community partners: Asian Bar Association of Washington, Asian Counseling and Referral Service, City of Seattle, Columbia Legal Services, Country Doctor Medical Clinic, Consumer Education & Training, Federal Bar Association, Federal Way Regional Library, Hispanic Bar Association, Hopelink, King County Law Library, Korean Bar Association, Korean Community Counseling Center, Nonprofit Assistance Center, Northwest Immigrant Rights Project, Northwest Justice Project, Northwest Women's Law Center, New Beginnings for Battered Women & Their Children, Refugee Womens's Alliance, Seattle University School of Law, Senior Services of Seattle/King County, and the Kent, West Seattle and Vashon-Maury Senior Centers.

Volunteer Staff

The clinics are staffed by two to four volunteer attorneys, each providing service to four or five clients each clinic session. These attorneys work for private law firms, for the government or for private organizations. A volunteer Clinic Assistant helps the attorneys at each clinic answer client's questions, provides general information on community resources and regulates the flow of appointments.

Referrals

The clinics are open to all residents of King County regardless of income. Clients who need further legal assistance may be referred to Volunteer Legal Services, the Lawyer Referral and Information Service and other legal or law-related agencies in the community.
